

Paper Valentine's Hearts

Supplies: colored paper (cardstock works best), scissors, glue, string, and colored pencils if you want to color white paper.

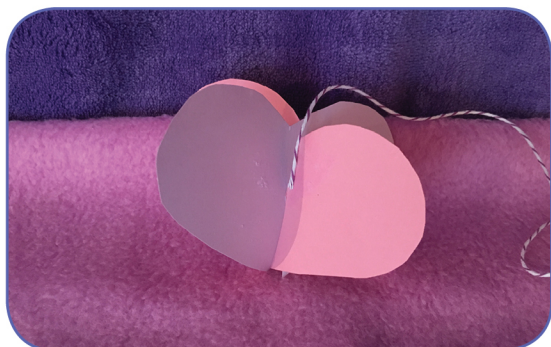

Fold paper in half, and draw half of a heart on the folded edge. Cut it out. Fold it open. Trace and cut the heart on another color paper.

Make a cut down the middle of each heart, but only half way. One from the top down, and the other from the bottom up.

Cut a string as long as you like. Put a little bit of glue in the top center of one heart.

Slide the two hearts together through the cuts. Put the string on the glue. Press the heart and string firmly.

When the glue is dry, you can open the hearts and make them blossom.
